Mark J. Krueger, Chief Deputy Attorney General, Bureau of Consumer Protection
Mark Krueger currently serves as the Attorney General's Chief Deputy Attorney General and Consumer Counsel in the Bureau of Consumer Protection, where his practice primarily focuses on complex antitrust, consumer protection, including cybercrime, and multistate litigation. Prior to joining the Attorney General's Office, Krueger was the Assistant District Attorney in Carson City and Lyon County respectively. Over the course of his career, Krueger has gained extensive experience in civil and criminal litigation and administrative law. Krueger has argued and practiced before the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, the Nevada Supreme Court, various District Courts, and numerous Justice and Municipal Courts. He has tried more than 40 criminal jury trials. Krueger has authored legislation, regulations, legal opinions, ordinances and municipal codes, and a scholarly chapter.

Laura M. Tucker, Senior Deputy Attorney General in the Nevada Attorney General's Office Bureau of Consumer Protection, focuses on general deceptive trade, multistate litigation, and privacy matters. She has presented at various outreach events across the state, focusing on cybersecurity for small business owners, senior citizens, and parents of school-aged children. In 2017, she was awarded the Make a Difference Award from the Attorney General for her work in consumer outreach. Tucker has been with the Office of the Attorney General since 2014. She also has legal experience in First Amendment, trademark, and copyright law. Prior to law school, Tucker worked as a journalist in Las Vegas.

Mr. Vinogradov joined Western Alliance in March of 2015. He currently serves as the 1st line Chief Security Officer and had previously held the position as WAL's Chief Security Officer in the 2nd line managing cyber and fraud risk. With over 30 years in technology, Victor held leadership roles in network architecture, cyber security and consulting at American Express, Charles Schwab and TÜV Rhineland. Mr. Vinogradov holds a Bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering from University of New Haven and a Master's degree in Information Security from Capitol College. He holds Certified Information Systems Security Professional credentials and has recently served on the Federal Reserve Secure Payments Task Force.

Rick Alwine is a Special Agent at the Federal Bureau of Investigations. He investigates criminal computer intrusion activity and completes computer forensics investigations.
